RESOLUTION SETS FORTH MINIMUM LEVEL REQUEST

OPPOSE ACTION DEMANDING AS MUCH OR MORE WATER DRAWN FROM LAKES

MINNESOTA LAKE LEVELS ASSOCIATION FORMED TO CARRY ON FIGHT

Eliminating reference to the nine foot channel when Twin City representatives pledged their support to the establishment of a minimum water level for Northern Minnesota's lakes, Northern Minnesota went on record yesterday afternoon to appeal to the proper authorities, even to President Herbert Hoover, for the establishment of levels in the lakes in the reservoir system below which water cannot be taken.

Speaking for 250,000 residents, the delegates to a man heartily endorsed the following resolution which embodies the needs and complaints of Northern Minnesota in terse form:

Be It Resolved, by the delegates from the communities and lake districts of Northern Minnesota, representing approximately 250,000 residents, and many thousands of residents of other states who spend their summers at Minnesota's Ten Thousand Lakes, this 11th day of September, 1930, at Brainerd, Minnesota:

Whereas, the summer tourist business in Minnesota has rapidly assumed the proportions of a major industry and annually attracts to our state business now approaching $90,000,000 per annum; and

Whereas, this business and its consequent income was built up solely by reason of the many beautiful lakes in our section of the state and must continue to exist and develop only if our lakes and their many attractions are maintained as nature intended; and

Whereas, it is of vital economic importance to the many thousands of people in northern Minnesota who have grown to depend in a great measure upon our summer tourist business that such business be preserved intact; and

Whereas, the continued withdrawal of waters from the several reservoir lakes has resulted in the destruction of fish life, rendered unsightly many hundreds of miles of previously beautiful lake shore and beaches, and made serious inroads on property values in our lake district; and

Now, therefore be it hereby resolved, that we are unalterably opposed to any action that will demand as much or more water as is now being drawn from our lakes and to any such policy or the continuance of the present policy, and we hereby voice our strenuous objection against the same.

Be it further resolved, that we are of the firm opinion that the only efficient and lasting remedy for such existing condition is the establishment of levels in the lakes in the reservoir system below which water cannot be taken.

Be it further resolved, that our two Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to use every honorable means to secure speedily the enactment of legislation establishing normal water levels in our reservoir lakes, below which withdrawals cannot be made.

Be it further resolved, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, the Secretary of War, the Chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of both Houses of Congress, and to the Senators and Representatives in Congress from this state.

The following were named members of a committee by C. A. Ryan, chairman of the meeting, "to take up the cudgel and fight for the rights of Northern Minnesota": H. E. Wolfe, Deer River; Charles Scheers, Akeley; Col. W. T. Mollison, Minneapolis and Big Sandy Lake; H. L. Heywood, Minneapolis; P. J. McGarry, Walker; Dr. G. M. Palmer, Bemidji; S. R. Adair, Brainerd; Archie Hayes, McGregor; A. L. Hamilton, Aitkin; F. J. Gustafson, Pequot; Frank Russell, Brainerd; B. R. Michener, Pine River.

Following conclusion of the minimum lake level gathering in Brainerd yesterday afternoon, a Minnesota Lake Levels Association was permanently organized with the following officers:

President—C. A. Ryan, Brainerd.
Vice President—Col. W. T. Mollison, Minneapolis.

Secretary—Frank N. Russell, Brainerd.

Treasurer—Dr. G. M. Palmer, Bemidji.

Minimum Water Levels at Reservoir Lakes

THE water level convention held at Brainerd yesterday adopted resolutions declaring for establishment of minimum water levels in reservoir lakes and a law by Congress to make it effective, thus going over the heads of Secretary of War Hurley and the War Department which hitherto regulated such levels, and to make it still more effective held as a cudgel over the heads of others veiled opposition to further appropriations to a nine-foot channel if such minimum levels were not enacted.

True, these paragraphs referring to a nine-foot channel, offending to some, were later withdrawn from the resolutions as finally adopted, but the sentiment was there.

The resolutions as originally proposed included a statement "that it is the sense of this meeting that our Senators and Representatives in Congress should use every means within their power to prevent apportionments being made for the so-called nine-foot channel in the Upper Mississippi until such a time as legislation which will fully protect our rights and properties shall have been enacted."

Congressman Harold Knutson, instrumental in assisting to call the water level gathering at Brainerd, stated in the Brainerd Dispatch on August 22, when first notice of the meeting was published, that he would introduce a bill in Congress at the December session setting minimum water levels in the reservoir lakes beyond which the government may not withdraw water.

At the meeting yesterday Congressman Knutson made the unequivocal statement that he would oppose in Congress any bill calling for appropriations further to develop the Upper Mississippi until the Northern Minnesota Lakes Region is aided.

Brainerd has had experience with other meetings of protest adopting resolutions and getting no further, in spite of relief promised by the present regulators of the reservoir lakes. A meeting was held in the same Chamber of Commerce rooms three years ago and nothing came of it. The late Leon E. Lum was active in the cause of minimum water levels and had a mass of correspondence and literature on the subject and worked continually for such relief.

The Brainerd meeting, taking nothing for granted, named a committee of 12 vitally interested citizens to continue the work for minimum water levels and this permanent organization will have its officers and committees and back up Congressman Knutson in his fight for the levels.

With its previous experience gained in objecting and "resolving," Brainerd now takes nothing for granted and the lake region district will work for its minimum water levels until the end is actually obtained.

Enough opinions have been heard and speeches made. From now on will come the steady grind of a fight to the finish to put this Lake District on a business-like basis so far as water levels in the reservoir lakes are concerned.

Much credit is due Congressman Harold Knutson and the Chamber of Commerce and others assisting to make the meeting so extended and successful in its operations.

It gained national recognition when Secretary of War Hurley took cognizance of the telegram concerning the meeting sent him by President C. A. Ryan of the Chamber of Commerce and appointed a personal representative, W. W. Morse of Minneapolis, to attend and speak.

The state of Minnesota took cognizance too, for the State Game and Fish Commission and the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association were represented. So too were many commercial bodies of North Central and Southern Minnesota, Izaak Walton League, etc.

a Past President of the Minnesota division.

The committee on bylaws is former Senator P. J. McGarry of Walker, H. E. Wolfe of Deer River and Charles Scheers, editor of the Akeley Herald-Tribune.

A meeting will be called within two weeks to perfect organization plans, decide on publicity, etc.

Annual memberships for individuals was set at $1 and for organizations such as Chambers of Commerce, etc., $10.

The association will work to have some state authority or commission named to establish minimum levels and to erect and maintain dams on lakes controlled by the state instead of by authority of county boards.

The mass meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms brought together the largest and most representative group of citizens at any held in the northwest. It brought men who came to demand the right to keep their inheritance, to fight for their homes, their future and the future of the state and nation in the preservation of Minnesota's Ten Thousand Lakes.

The dire effect of the lowering of the lakes through diversion in government dams was vividly pictured in statements of men from various parts of the northwest.

Such reports were mixed with clashes between Congressman Harold Knutson and C. A. Ryan, leaders in the north's cause and Twin Cities proponents of the 9-foot channel.

Congressman W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis led the opposition in defense of the proposed 9 foot channel.

High lights of the meeting included: Passage of the resolution setting forth the desires of Northern Minnesota relative to the establishment of a minimum water level in reservoir lakes.

Declaration of Congressman Knutson he would oppose in congress any move seeking appropriation to further develop the Mississippi river for freight transportation until aid is given the Northern Minnesota lake region.

Establishment of a Minnesota Water Levels Association and the appointment of twelve men to discuss policies of the association.

H. E. Wolfe, Deer River, charged that farmers were forced to cut down on their stocks because of the lowering of water.

"We should not stop this side of the president in getting relief. President Hoover is the only person who can talk back to the war department. The worth of freight transportation on the river is only a pygmy compared to agriculture and the tourist industry. Unless we get relief we are ruined," he declared.

Mr. Wolfe brought to the attention of the meeting that Lake Winnibigoshish had receded half a mile.

"It is up to us to fight the nine foot channel if the channel will lower our lakes. No degree of cooperation has yet been tendered us by army engineers. We have no assurance that the 19 or 20 dams promised will be erected," Donald Ryan said.

G. D. LaBar, president of the First National Bank, Brainerd, registered a protest for the taking of water for transportation purposes.

"There is no comparison between the value of freight transportation on the river and our tourist business," he said.

Congressman Knutson told of Indians burying tons of dead fish at Cass Lake.

"This year 75,000 tons were shipped on the Mississippi river at the expense of our lakes," Congressman Knutson said.

SEN. WHEELER CHANGES POLICY ON PROHIBITION

NOW ADVOCATES THE REPEAL OF THE 18TH AMENDMENT

ON TUESDAY GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT OF NEW YORK MADE SAME ANNOUNCEMENT

By NATHAN ROBERTSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 12.—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment and state control of liquor was advocated today by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, long regarded as a prohibitionist.

Wheeler is the first senator generally regarded as a dry to advocate repeal of the prohibition amendment.

He was the second prominent political leader to declare for repeal of the eighteenth amendment this week. Tuesday, Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, made a similar announcement.

In discussing the Roosevelt statement, Wheeler revealed his change of view to the United Press.

"Most thinking people have come to the same conclusion," Wheeler said, referring to Roosevelt's statement. "I don't see how they could think otherwise in view of the way prohibition has worked out."

"Then you agree with him?" he was asked.

"Yes, I believe prohibition is something that should be left up to the individual states," he replied.

Although Wheeler has generally been considered in favor of prohibition, he has not been classed as a "radical dry." He voted against the Jones "five and ten" enforcement law, but usually he has supported legislation sponsored by the dry forces. He has consistently voted for appropriations to carry on enforcement work.

During the last session of congress, however, he made several speeches attacking enforcement officials and demanded a senatorial investigation of enforcement methods. His colleague, Senator Walsh, a running for re-election as a dry although Montana has gone wet in two referendums.

Several dry senators recently announced they would vote to submit a repeal amendment if their states wanted them to.

Senators Jones, republican, Washington; Oddie, republican, Nevada; Sheppard, democrat, Texas, and Walsh, Wheeler's democratic colleague from Montana, have taken such a stand.

The recent defeats in Michigan of two of the Anti-Saloon League's strongest congressional supporters, Reps. Louis C. Crampton and Grant Hudson, republicans, were being blamed by some prohibitionists upon the change in the league's tactics since the death of Wheeler.

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league, told the senate lobby committee last spring that he did not follow many of Wheeler's policies. Wheeler was an aggressive lobbyist in the halls of congress and at the White House.

SOLD DAUGHTER INTO BONDAGE

SAMUEL LONG OF TIFFIN, OHIO, RESORTS TO COURTS TO WIN HER BACK

Tiffin, O., Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Samuel Long, who once sold his 17-year-old daughter into bondage to discharge a debt, has taken recourse to the courts to win her back again.

The fight that Long, a Sulphur Springs farmer, has waged to regain custody of his child, Lola, today reached a dual climax and little hope was held for an early settlement. While common pleas court was deliberating upon an application for a writ of habeas corpus with which the girl would be forced to return to her paternal home, the Seneca county grand jury was considering charges of assault, preferred against the parent by Mrs. Milton F. Reiff to whom, in addition to her husband, Lola had been "leased" in payment of a debt.

Amicable negotiations, court fights, alleged kidnappings and now charges of assault, all have found their way into this strange case which traces its origin more than a year back when Long "bonded" his 17-year-old daughter out to the Reiffs in repayment for a debt, the nature of which has never been disclosed.

TROPICAL HURRICANE IN CAROLINA

STORM OF MARKED INTENSITY AT MOREHEAD CITY, N. C.

SAME GALE WHICH DID SO MUCH DAMAGE AT SANTO DOMINGO

Washington, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The tropical hurricane which virtually demolished Santo Domingo several days ago turned up along the North Carolina coast today, with revived strength after moving about the gulf and across Florida.

The United States weather bureau issued a warning advising that the disturbance, while of smaller diameter, was of hurricane intensity, and said its center would move over the North Carolina coast this afternoon, south of Beaufort.

Newbern, N. C., Sept. 12.—The full force of the Santo Domingo hurricane was believed to have struck the North Carolina coast this afternoon.

All telephone communication with towns in the reported path of the renewed disturbance ended at 2:45 P. M. EST., the telephone company of Newbern reported.

High winds and severe rains were reported at Morehead City and Beaufort before communication ceased.

Morehead City, N. C., Sept. 12.—A storm of marked intensity struck the southeast North Carolina coast today.

A heavy rain and high winds made up the disturbance. Streets were running rivulets of water.

Extent of the storm, announced by the weather bureau as the same tropical hurricane which demolished Santo Domingo several days ago, was not immediately known.

Telephone lines between here and Beaufort, N. C., several miles to the eastward, were out of order due to the high wind.

At 1 P. M., the storm was increasing in intensity.

The barometer steadily dropped here and at 1 P. M. EST. reached 29.04. Velocity of the wind was estimated at between 40 and 60 miles an hour.

Weather bureau reports received here said the full force of the disturbance would not be encountered until tonight.

JAPAN APPROVES LONDON NAVAL PACT

Tokio, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—A special committee of the privy council approved the London naval treaty today.

A formal decision of the privy council will be taken Monday, when it is expected that the treaty will be ratified.

SLAYING CLOSES DISPUTE IN WIFE LEAVING HIS HOME

BENGT SALBERG, DISABLED VET, HELD IN LATEST AITKIN COUNTY MURDER

PROTECTION OF HER MOTHER BRINGS DEATH TO BRIDE OF A MONTH

Bengt Salberg, 35, disabled war veteran, farmer living near McGrath, was a prisoner in the Aitkin county jail today on the charge of murder, his wife of a month dead, the victim of his revolver fire directed at his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. W. Spurlock.

Aitkin county's latest murder took place at 8:30 o'clock last evening at his mother-in-law's home, two miles east of what is referred to as "Dad's Corner" and three miles from the Salberg farm.

The slaying culminated an argument between Salberg and Mrs. Spurlock, Aitkin county authorities said, regarding Mrs. Salberg leaving her husband a week ago and going to live with her mother-in-law.

Accusing her as the reason for his wife leaving him, Salberg is alleged to have taken a .32 calibre revolver from his coat, levelled it at Mrs. Spurlock and fired. Leaving before her mother to protect her, Mrs. Salberg received the shot in her chest, crumpling on the dining room floor near a table on which stood a lamp. She died almost instantly.

Salberg made no attempt to escape. He remained at the farm home until Deputy Sheriff Oscar Hartz of McGrath arrived, took him into custody and brought him to the county jail.

County Attorney F. W. Allen stated on questioning by The Dispatch that he contemplated presenting evidence of the murder to the grand jury at a special session and would move for Salberg's arraignment in district court at Aitkin this fall.

A coroner's jury will conduct the inquest tomorrow morning.

Attorney Donald L. Ryan, Brainerd, will represent the defendant in this the attorney's second murder defense in Aitkin county.

DECISION AGAINST MINING COMPANIES ON OCCUPATION TAX

St. Paul, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The state supreme court today held that iron mining companies may not deduct royalty tax payments in computing their occupation tax payments. The decision will mean an additional income to the state of about $50,000 a year which the companies now deduct on the basis of royalty payments.

The court action was started by the Oliver Mining Co., which secured a writ of certiorari by which the decision of the Minnesota Tax commission in refusing to allow the reductions was reviewed.

The occupation tax is a 6 per cent levy on the value of ores mined.

SEPTEMBER RAINFALL ENCOURAGES ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Aided by two showers today which brought half an inch of rain, September rainfall for the Twin Cities and vicinity is back at normal, although the total for the year is about six inches shy of the normal amount, the United States weather bureau reported.

For July and August the rainfall was 5.4 inches below normal.

Additional showers throughout the state are forecast for tonight and probably Saturday.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES CORINTH IN GREECE

Athens, Greece, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The inhabitants of Corinth were terrified today by earthquakes which began in the morning and grew stronger during the afternoon. The populace feared a repetition of the 1928 earthquakes which destroyed Corinth.

THREATS MADE OF GASOLINE AT 13 CENTS GALLON

Minneapolis, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Threat that gasoline prices may be reduced as low as 13 cents a gallon was made today by independent dealers, who asserted that the 2.2 cent cut by the larger oil companies was only the first step in a price-slashing competition.

When the larger companies yesterday reduced their prices on low test from 20.2 to 18 cents, most independents immediately cut theirs to 16 cents a gallon.

These prices prevail in Minneapolis, St. Paul and vicinity.

SAMUEL LONG OF TIFFIN, OHIO, RESORTS TO COURTS TO WIN HER BACK

Tiffin, O., Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Samuel Long, who once sold his 17-year-old daughter into bondage to discharge a debt, has taken recourse to the courts to win her back again.

The fight that Long, a Sulphur Springs farmer, has waged to regain custody of his child, Lola, today reached a dual climax and little hope was held for an early settlement. While common pleas court was deliberating upon an application for a writ of habeas corpus with which the girl would be forced to return to her paternal home, the Seneca county grand jury was considering charges of assault, preferred against the parent by Mrs. Milton F. Reiff to whom, in addition to her husband, Lola had been "leased" in payment of a debt.

Amicable negotiations, court fights, alleged kidnappings and now charges of assault, all have found their way into this strange case which traces its origin more than a year back when Long "bonded" his 17-year-old daughter out to the Reiffs in repayment for a debt, the nature of which has never been disclosed.

TROPICAL HURRICANE IN CAROLINA

STORM OF MARKED INTENSITY AT MOREHEAD CITY, N. C.

SAME GALE WHICH DID SO MUCH DAMAGE AT SANTO DOMINGO

Washington, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The tropical hurricane which virtually demolished Santo Domingo several days ago turned up along the North Carolina coast today, with revived strength after moving about the gulf and across Florida.

The United States weather bureau issued a warning advising that the disturbance, while of smaller diameter, was of hurricane intensity, and said its center would move over the North Carolina coast this afternoon, south of Beaufort.

Newbern, N. C., Sept. 12.—The full force of the Santo Domingo hurricane was believed to have struck the North Carolina coast this afternoon.

All telephone communication with towns in the reported path of the renewed disturbance ended at 2:45 P. M. EST, the telephone company of Newbern reported.

High winds and severe rains were reported at Morehead City and Beaufort before communication ceased.

Morehead City, N. C., Sept. 12.—A storm of marked intensity struck the southeast North Carolina coast today. A heavy rain and high winds made up the disturbance. Streets were running rivulets of water.

Extent of the storm, announced by the weather bureau as the same tropical hurricane which demolished Santo Domingo several days ago, was not immediately known.

Telephone lines between here and Beaufort, N. C., several miles to the eastward, were out of order due to the high wind.

At 1 P. M., the storm was increasing in intensity.

The barometer steadily dropped here and at 1 P. M. EST, reached 29.04. Velocity of the wind was estimated at between 40 and 60 miles an hour.

Weather bureau reports received here said the full force of the disturbance would not be encountered until tonight.

JAPAN APPROVES LONDON NAVAL PACT

Tokio, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—A special committee of the privy council approved the London naval treaty today.

A formal decision of the privy council will be taken Monday, when it is expected that the treaty will be ratified.

SLAYING CLOSES DISPUTE IN WIFE LEAVING HIS HOME

BENGT SALBERG, DISABLED VET, HELD IN LATEST AITKIN COUNTY MURDER

PROTECTION OF HER MOTHER BRINGS DEATH TO BRIDE OF A MONTH

Bengt Salberg, 35, disabled war veteran, farmer living near McGrath, was a prisoner in the Aitkin county jail today on the charge of murder, his wife of a month dead, the victim of his revolver fire directed at his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. W. Spurlock. Aitkin county's latest murder took place at 8:30 o'clock last evening at his mother-in-law's home, two miles east of what is referred to as "Dad's Corner," and three miles from the Salberg farm.

The slaying culminated an argument between Salberg and Mrs. Spurlock, Aitkin county authorities said, regarding Mrs. Salberg leaving her husband a week ago and going to live with her mother-in-law.

Accusing her as the reason for his wife leaving him, Salberg is alleged to have taken a .32 calibre revolver from his coat, levelled it at Mrs. Spurlock and fired. Leaving before her mother to protect her, Mrs. Salberg received the shot in her chest, crumpling on the dining room floor near a table on which stood a lamp. She died almost instantly.

Salberg made no attempt to escape. He remained at the farm home until Deputy Sheriff Oscar Hartz of McGrath arrived, took him into custody and brought him to the county jail.

County Attorney F. W. Allen stated on questioning by The Dispatch that he contemplated presenting evidence of the murder to the grand jury at a special session and would move for Salberg's arraignment in district court at Aitkin this fall.

A coroner's jury will conduct the inquest tomorrow morning.

Attorney Donald I. Ryan, Brainerd, will represent the defendant in this the attorney's second murder defense in Aitkin county.

DECISION AGAINST MINING COMPANIES ON OCCUPATION TAX

St. Paul, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The state supreme court today held that iron mining companies may not deduct royalty payments in computing their occupation tax payments. The decision will mean an additional income to the state of about $50,000 a year which the companies now deduct on the basis of royalty payments.

The court action was started by the Oliver Mining Co., which secured a writ of certiorari by which the decision of the Minnesota Tax commission in refusing to allow the reductions was reviewed.

The occupation tax is a 6 per cent levy on the value of ores mined.

SEPTEMBER RAINFALL ENCOURAGES ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Aided by two showers today which brought half an inch of rain, September rainfall for the Twin Cities and vicinity is back at normal, although the total for the year is about six inches shy of the normal amount, the United States weather bureau reported.

For July and August the rainfall was 5.4 inches below normal.

Additional showers throughout the state are forecast for tonight and probably Saturday.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES CORINTH IN GREECE

Athens, Greece, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The inhabitants of Corinth were terrified today by earthquakes which began in the morning and grew stronger during the afternoon. The populace feared a repetition of the 1928 earthquakes which destroyed Corinth.

THREATS MADE OF GASOLINE AT 13 CENTS GALLON

Minneapolis, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Threat that gasoline prices may be reduced as low as 13 cents a gallon was made today by independent dealers, who asserted that the 2.2 cent cut by the larger oil companies was only the first step in a price-slashing competition.

When the larger companies yesterday reduced their prices on low test from 20.2 to 18 cents, most independents immediately cut theirs to 16 cents a gallon.

These prices prevail in Minneapolis, St. Paul and vicinity.

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

3-STORY APARTMENT HOUSE IS DESTROYED AT NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

Newark, N. J., Sept. 12.—(UP)—Two small children were burned to death today when fire destroyed a three-story apartment house in the heart of the Italian district.

The blaze started on the top floor and worked downward, cutting off all exits.

In a top floor apartment firemen discovered the charred body of a girl, believed to be Gloria Romano, 2, Edward Fantos, 6, was rescued during the fire, but died later of burns.

Two Great Scotsmen

When Robert Burns was born the Scottish nation was poor, remote, almost unknown beyond its own borders. Burns introduced Scotland and the Scots to the world, and he was followed by another singer and novelist, Scott, who continued the process.

First Use of Coke

The bureau of mines says that the first bituminous coal was coked in the United States in 1816 and was probably used for smelting iron.

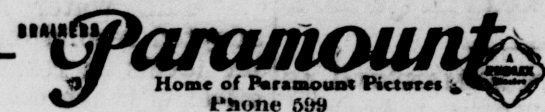

THE PATTERN — In all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works: in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity. Sound speech, that cannot be condemned; that he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.—Titus 2:7, 8.

PRAYER — "He who would the Father seek, Must seek Him, Lord, by Thee."

THE BLESSED HOPE — For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, Teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world; Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ.—Titus 2:11-13.

PRAYER—"The God of glory comes in gentleness and might."

MANIAC THINKS IT HIS DUTY TO KILL PEOPLE

TROOPS AND POLICE SEEK TO CAPTURE HIM AT TRURO,
NOVA SCOTIA

HAD LINED UP A DOZEN CHILD-REN, AIMED A SHOTGUN
ON THEM

Truro, Nova Scotia, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—A maniac who considers it his duty to kill "for God" was at large today while troops and police forces sought to capture him before he might begin a campaign of wholesale slaughter.

The maniac, Otis Gupitil, escaped from the Kings county home for the insane, where he had been placed in February after it was alleged that he lined up a dozen school children and prepared to fire on them with a shotgun. Gupitil was shouting "You have to die for God" when this plan was interrupted, officials said.

Gupitil was not armed when he escaped from the hospital, officials believed, and they therefore made every effort to apprehend him before he might procure a gun. Police were inclined to believe that he had headed for his home in the Hardscrabble mountains, near Wolfville, where he lived for many years. A party of officers started for the Wolfville district, while other officials watched highways and railroad tracks near Truro.

One morning last February, police say, Gupitil went to the home of his nephew, Harry Gupitil. He was armed with a shotgun and tried to enter his nephew's house, but Mrs. Harry Gupitil, at home alone, barred the door.

A few minutes later Mrs. Gupitil happened to look through a window and saw the maniac forming a dozen children into a line in front of the West Brooklyn school. He was shouting "You have to die for God!" and apparently intended to execute the children.

Mrs. Gupitil seized a shotgun and ran from the house. She arrived just as Gupitil covered the frightened children with his own gun. Mrs. Gupitil fired instantly and Gupitil dropped to the ground, wounded.

Gupitil was taken to the asylum when he recovered from his wounds. He told visitors to the institution recently he could escape any time he desired. "Whenever God is ready," Gupitil said, "He will give me strength to break out of here."

reported and emphatically continued: "I can assure you positively that there will be no nine foot channel if it is to be operated at the expense of our lakes. We are willing to let engineers say what a reasonable level is."

Speaking to the Twin City delegations Congressman Knutson said: "We do our buying in the Twin Cities. You are materially benefitted by the lake country. You should give us assurance this afternoon that you will help us."

Chairman Ryan told the meeting that he received from authentic source that there was "anything but unanimity in the Twin Cities regarding the nine foot channel."

He declared that a railway official, who desired not to have his name announced, told him he hoped Northern Minnesota would fight like hell against the nine foot channel.

Congressman Nolan stated he was intensely interested in preserving the lakes of Northern Minnesota and was also interested in the nine foot channel.

"The nine foot channel will be a great benefit to industrial life of the northwest. You are not going to get cooperation in securing a minimum water level if you knock the nine foot channel," he said.

W. W. Morse, of Minneapolis, operations manager of the Inland Waterways Corporation, who represented Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley at the meeting pledged support of the establishing of a minimum water level if Northern Minnesota will get behind the nine foot channel.

Congressman Knutson asked that photographs and affidavits be given him of the claim that 150 tons of dead whitefish from Sandy Lake were buried this fall.

Representative E. P. Scallon subscribed to Congressman Nolan's views and said that Northern Minnesota would get farther by not opposing the nine foot channel.

STANDARD OIL CO. TO ENTER TIRE BUSINESS

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Entry of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana into the business of selling and servicing automobile tires was announced today by the board of directors.

From about October 15 tires will be available at 1,000 stations in 550 cities and towns in the middle west. Further distribution will be arranged as rapidly as possible to be carried on through all the 8,200 controlled service stations and through the garages, stations, and stores which are handling Standard of Indiana products on a reseller basis. Co-operation with the resellers is to be a special feature of the Indiana company's tire selling program.

A tire of first-line or first quality made by experienced manufacturing concerns will be handled by the Standard of Indiana. Prices will be adjusted to give them popular appeal. The usual tire accessories will be stocked along with casings and tubes.

Complete tire servicing will be started as rapidly as attendants can be trained for the work.

COCK-EYED MULLIGAN SETS A NEW RECORD

OWNS MORE NIGHT CLUBS CLOSED BY POLICE THAN ANY OTHER CHICAGOAN

Chicago, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—David "Cock-eyed Mulligan" Ablin has set a record. He has owned more night clubs that were closed by police than any other man in Chicago.

Ablin once operated the Epicure club. Customers paid in $250 cover charge on their first visit. They got the money back in installments on each succeeding visit. Police closed it before anybody could go often enough to get back his deposit.

The Club Algiers was Ablin's next venture. It also was on the Gold Coast and only patrons wearing evening clothes were admitted. Police closed it.

Ablin then opened the Maison Ritz.

as exclusive in furnishings as in name. In "Cock-Eyed Mulligan's" own words, it was a "hotzy-totsy" place. It was closed also.

An invitation to the grand opening of another Ablin night club, the Paroquet, fell yesterday into the hands of a policeman. It read: "Come you midnight sons of 'fun. We are open every night from 6 until the purple elephants and pink giraffes drive us home. The Paroquet, an old Algerian word meaning whoopee, calls to you."

"And if in the process of initiation, your throat becomes dry and your tongue parched—well, that old Algerian, Dave Ablin, will make it his business."

The opening became the closing when the policeman and some of his fellows arrived, attired, of course, in their nicest uniforms. And "Cock-eyed" Mulligan set a record.

Conserving Roughage

The Minnesota Editorial Association, through its Farm Bureau Committee chairman, Col. E. E. Howard, editor of the Wheaton Gazette, believed that the press of Minnesota can perform a significant part in helping the drouth area of the country by pointing out to their farmer readers the necessity of conserving every bit of grain, hay, fodder and straw this fall for feed. No straw pile should be burned. Straw may be used as roughage for the stock at home while grain and hay may be shipped.

There will undoubtedly be better prices for feed before spring, but regardless of prices, there is such an actual shortage that saving roughage in the districts where there is a fair crop may mean that the concentrated feed released for shipment will actually save the lives of stock in the drouth area.

The drouth probably will force thousands of head into the livestock markets this fall in an unfinished condition and prices will tumble so the wise farmer will likely keep his stock off from the market until it is really finished, even if he has to borrow money to do it. After the sacrifice market there will be a shortage if animals are kept on the farm and that will be a good time to hold up marketing until prices get right.

Minnesota is in good shape this fall but there is no feed to waste if this state is to do its part in helping the farmers in less fortunate areas, Farm Bureau officials and Minnesota editors assert.

Predicts Wages Will Not Come Down

AN eminent industrial leader with a wide grasp of commercial affairs and trends, James A. Farrell, president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, is authority for the statement that "wages will not come down."

In colloquial fashion Mr. Farrell observed he heard a man say the other day that wages would come down. Mr. Farrell said: "Oh, no, wages are not coming down; you can make up your mind to that fact. If you are going out to sell your goods and eliminate your profit and expect to get it out of the men in the mills, why, you are greatly mistaken."

Then he said: "You make up your mind to one thing, get better prices for your material and get rid of the idea that wages are going down, because wages are not going down in the steel industry."

LAST VESTIGE OF MILITARY OCCUPATION IN EUROPE REMOVED

Geneva, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The last vestige of military occupation in Europe was ordered removed today when the League of Nations council passed a resolution for withdrawal of 300 allied soldiers protecting railroad lines in the Sarre basin, on the Franco-German frontier.

The removal of the troops had been asked by Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, who was particularly anxious to achieve withdrawal of the forces because of the impression it would have on the German voters in the reichstag election next Sunday.

Toledo, Sept. 12.—Eight hits, combined with the effective pitching by Carroll, enabled the Toledo Mud Hens to defeat the league-leading Louisville Colonels in the series opener here yesterday, 6-2.

Conserving Roughage

The Minnesota Editorial Association, through its Farm Bureau Committee chairman, Col. E. E. Howard, editor of the Wheaton Gazette, believed that the press of Minnesota can perform a significant part in helping the drouth area of the country by pointing out to their farmer readers the necessity of conserving every bit of grain, hay, fodder and straw this fall for feed. No straw pile should be burned. Straw may be used as roughage for the stock at home while grain and hay may be shipped.

There will undoubtedly be better prices for feed before spring, but regardless of prices, there is such an actual shortage that saving roughage in the districts where there is a fair crop may mean that the concentrated feed released for shipment will actually save the lives of stock in the drouth area.

The drouth probably will force thousands of head into the livestock markets this fall in an unfinished condition and prices will tumble so the wise farmer will likely keep his stock off from the market until it is really finished, even if he has to borrow money to do it. After the sacrifice market there will be a shortage if animals are kept on the farm and that will be a good time to hold up marketing until prices get right.

Minnesota is in good shape this fall but there is no feed to waste if this state is to do its part in helping the farmers in less fortunate areas, Farm Bureau officials and Minnesota editors assert.

Predicts Wages Will Not Come Down

AN eminent industrial leader with a wide grasp of commercial affairs and trends, James A. Farrell, president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, is authority for the statement that "wages will not come down."

In colloquial fashion Mr. Farrell observed he heard a man say the other day that wages would come down. Mr. Farrell said: "Oh, no, wages are not coming down; you can make up your mind to that fact. If you are going out to sell your goods and eliminate your profit and expect to get it out of the men in the mills, why, you are greatly mistaken."

Then he said: "You make up your mind to one thing, get better prices for your material and get rid of the idea that wages are going down, because wages are not going down in the steel industry."

CHICAGO CUBS FACE LOSS OF NATIONAL LEAGUE LEAD

STAGGER UNDER 3 STRAIGHT DEFEATS BY THE ROBINS

NOW HANG TO THE TOP BY THE SLENDER THREAD OF HALF A GAME

BROOKLYN NOW RIDING ON A SEVEN-GAME WINNING STREAK

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 12.—The Chicago Cubs, staggering under three straight defeats administered by the Brooklyn Robins, today faced loss of the National League lead.

Hanging to the top by the slender thread of half a game, the Cubs retreated from Brooklyn to open a four-game series with the last-place Phillies at Philadelphia.

The St. Louis Cardinals, victors in 9 of their last 10 games, close their 4-game series against the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The Robins, riding on a 7-game winning streak, opened a 4-game series against the Reds at Ebbets Field. On their last western trip the Robins dropped five games in a row to Cincinnati, three by one run.

If the Cubs lose today, either or both the Cardinals and Robins can pass them, with a double victory for St. Louis and Brooklyn pushing Chicago to third place.

The last hope of the championship for the Cubs seems to have drifted away. They have lost four straight and 9 out of their last 12 games. Their hitters have bogged down and their pitching staff has crumbled.

The Cubs went 24 consecutive innings before scoring a run in the Brooklyn series, their longest being broken when Hack Wilson hit his 48th home run of the season in the seventh inning of yesterday's game which the Robins won, 2-1.

Glenn Wright's home run after Herman had walked in the first inning with two men out won the game for the Robins.

The Cubs' three best pitchers, Pat

DRAG AL SINGER FROM THE RING BY HIS HEELS

BEATEN BY McLARNIN IN THIRD ROUND

WEIGHTS CAUSES SINGER, HOWEVER, TO RETAIN HIS TITLE

END CAME SUDDENLY AS TWO FIGHTERS WERE BATTERING EACH OTHER

New York, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Add to your list of sadder but wiser young men today the name of Al Singer, lightweight champion of the world.

Singer stepped out last night at Yankee stadium before some 40,000 customers to prove his worth by taking on Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, B. C.

Late in the third round, after two minutes and 21 seconds of fighting, they dragged Singer from the ring by his heels while the coast boy turned handsprings in his corner.

Singer still is lightweight ruler, however, as McLarnin came in at 140, well above the lightweight limit. Singer weighed 135½.

The end came suddenly. They were banging away against the ropes in a neutral corner when the champion slumped to the floor from the effects of a short but sizzling left hand drive to the jaw. Singer came to his feet after a count of nine and clinched.

A second later he hit the floor for good when another left hand punch smacked his face.

Indianapolis, Sept. 12.—Columbus downed the Indianapolis Indians in the first game of their series, which was played at night, slugging out a 9-4 victory. The Senators scored five runs in a big seventh inning to clinch the game. Kemmer went the route for Columbus, allowing eight hits.

FOUR TO BE PLAYED AT HOME: BRAINERD CLASH SET FOR ARMISTICE DAY AT CROSBY

Crosby-Ironton's grid schedule for the season will include six games, four of which are to be played at Crosby, according to an announcement by Coach Woodcock.

The range team will open its schedule at home on September 27 meeting Alexandria and will close its season on Armistice Day, November 11 when Brainerd furnishes the opposition. In between dates are: Oct. 4, open; Oct. 11, Mora at Mora; Oct. 18, Staples at Crosby; Oct. 25, Aitkin at Aitkin; Nov. 1, Little Falls at Crosby.

The six members of the squad who earned letters last year and have returned to the fold are: Theodore Anderson, Sam Dobervich, Irwin Elmer, Carl Irwick, Roland Olson and Walter Petraborg.

Milwaukee, Sept. 12.—Brilliant relief hurling by Louis Fette, who replaced "Pea Ridge" Day in the third inning, enabled the Kansas City Blues to down the Milwaukee Brewers in the first game of the series here yesterday, 16-5. Collins and McMillan hit home runs for Kansas City.

BRAINERD AND RICE TEAMS OF EVANGELICAL CHURCH CROSS BATS SATURDAY

Saturday afternoon, at the Northern Pacific ball park, a baseball game will be played between the Young Men's classes of the Zion Evangelical Sunday schools of Brainerd and Rice. Following the game, the visiting team and friends will be entertained at a six o'clock dinner in the Evangelical church parlors.

The first game between these two teams was played on Labor Day when the Sunday school of Brainerd was entertained at the annual Sunday school picnic of the Evangelical church at Rice, at which the baseball game between the two classes was one of the main features of entertainment.

ROBINS AND CARDS CONTINUE THEIR MAD DASH FOR TOP PLACE

(By United Press)

The three National League leaders—Chicago, St. Louis and Brooklyn—were virtually tied for the lead today as a result of Thursday's games. The standings, games behind and games left to play of the first division clubs follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Gb.	Gp.
Chicago	80	59	.576	—	15
St. Louis	79	59	.572	½	16
Brooklyn	80	60	.571	½	14
New York	77	62	.554	3	15

The Robins and Cards continued their mad dash toward the top on Thursday by defeating the Cubs and Giants 2 to 1 and 5 to 4 respectively. Dazzy Vance pitched one of the most brilliant games of his career in the Robins' victory. The Dazzler struck out 13, gave but five hits and whiffed Hack Wilson twice. It was Wilson, however, who prevented his team being blanked three times in succession by hitting his 48th home run of the season in the seventh inning.

Chick Hafey's first inning home run with two men on gave the Cards a lead the Giants found too much to overcome, although New York twice tied the score.

The Phillies made it three in a row over the Cincinnati Reds, winning 15

CHICAGO CUBS FACE LOSS OF NATIONAL LEAGUE LEAD

STAGGER UNDER 3 STRAIGHT DEFEATS BY THE ROBINS

NOW HANG TO THE TOP BY THE SLENDER THREAD OF HALF A GAME

BROOKLYN NOW RIDING ON A SEVEN-GAME WINNING STREAK

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 12.—The Chicago Cubs, staggering under three straight defeats administered by the Brooklyn Robins, today faced loss of the National League lead.

Hanging to the top by the slender thread of half a game, the Cubs retreated from Brooklyn to open a four-game series with the last-place Phillies at Philadelphia.

The St. Louis Cardinals, victors in 9 of their last 10 games, close their 4-game series against the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The Robins, riding on a 7-game winning streak, opened a 4-game series against the Reds at Ebbets Field. On their last western trip the Robins dropped five games in a row to Cincinnati, three by one run.

If the Cubs lose today, either or both the Cardinals and Robins can pass them, with a double victory for St. Louis and Brooklyn pushing Chicago to third place.

The last hope of the championship for the Cubs seems to have drifted away. They have lost four straight and 9 out of their last 12 games. Their hitters have bogged down and their pitching staff has crumbled.

The Cubs went 24 consecutive innings before scoring a run in the Brooklyn series, their trance being broken when Hack Wilson hit his 48th home run of the season in the seventh inning of yesterday's game which the Robins won, 2-1.

Glenn Wright's home run after Herman had walked in the first inning with two men out won the game for the Robins.

DRAG AL SINGER FROM THE RING BY HIS HEELS

BEATEN BY McLARNIN IN THIRD ROUND

WEIGHTS CAUSES SINGER, HOWEVER, TO RETAIN HIS TITLE

END CAME SUDDENLY AS TWO FIGHTERS WERE BATTERING EACH OTHER

New York, Sept. 12.—Add to your list of sadder but wiser young men today the name of Al Singer, lightweight champion of the world.

Singer stepped out last night at Yankee stadium before some 40,000 customers to prove his worth by taking on Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, B. C.

Late in the third round, after two minutes and 21 seconds of fighting, they dragged Singer from the ring by his heels while the coast boy turned handsprings in his corner.

Singer still is lightweight ruler, however, as McLarnin came in at 140, well above the lightweight limit. Singer weighed 135½.

The end came suddenly. They were hanging away against the ropes in a neutral corner when the champion slumped to the floor from the effects of a short but sizzling left hand drive to the jaw. Singer came to his feet after a count of nine and clinched. A second later he hit the floor for good when another left hand punch smacked his face.

Indianapolis, Sept. 12.—Columbus downed the Indianapolis Indians in the first game of their series, which was played at night, slugging out a 9-4 victory. The Senators scored five runs in a big seventh inning to clinch the game. Kemmer went the route for Columbus, allowing eight hits.

FOUR TO BE PLAYED AT HOME; BRAINERD CLASH SET FOR ARMISTICE DAY AT CROSBY

The range team will open its schedule at home on September 27 meeting Alexandria and will close its season on Armistice Day, November 11 when Brainerd furnishes the opposition. In between dates are: Oct. 4, open; Oct. 11, Mora at Mora; Oct. 18, Staples at Crosby; Oct. 25, Aitkin at Aitkin; Nov. 1, Little Falls at Crosby.

The six members of the squad who earned letters last year and have returned to the fold are: Theodore Anderson, Sam Dobervich, Irwin Eimer, Carl Irwick, Roland Olson and Walter Petraborg.

Milwaukee, Sept. 12.—Brilliant relief hurling by Louis Fette, who replaced "Pea Ridge" Day in the third inning, enabled the Kansas City Blues to down the Milwaukee Brewers in the first game of the series here yesterday, 16-5. Collins and McMillan hit home runs for Kansas City.

DYING GANGSTER BREAKS CODE OF THE UNDERWORLD

"TALKS" AND AS RESULT RE-PUTED GANG LEADER IS ARRESTED

NICHOLAS MUSCATO, OF CHI-
CAGO, CHARGED WITH MUR-
DERING 2 FOLLOWERS

Chicago, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—A dying gangster "talked," and as a result Nicholas Muscato, reputed leader of the notorious "42s" and known to his friends as "The Little Man," was charged today with murdering two of his own followers.

Police said Muscato had blundered by trusting a boy and by not making sure that his second victim, Peter Nicastro, 25, known as "The Ape," was dead before he rolled him from a speeding automobile into a street.

"The Ape" appeared to be dead when officers picked him up, but they rushed him to a hospital. An injection of adrenalin revived him long enough for him to tell who had shot him. It was one of the first cases on record of a dying gangster violating the unwritten law by "talking."

Muscato, called "The Little Man," because he is only five feet, one inch tall, joined the "42s" when he was 16 years old, detectives say.

The "42s" became ambitious, officers charge. Led by "The Little Man," they became alcohol runners and allies of the "Red" Bolton gang. Muscato's lieutenants were Nicastro and Frank Petito, who was only 17.

Petito, according to Nicastro's dying statement, failed in his trust, betrayed his fellows by "hi-jacking" a Bolton still, and was killed by "The Ape" and "The Little Man."

That was the first time murder had entered into the activities of the "42s." It was something to boast about. Nicastro did boast—when "The Little Man" was not near enough to hear. He boasted that it was he, not Muscato, who had fired the shots that killed Petito.

But "The Little Man" heard, police say, and there was another murder among the "42s."

Faced with the evidence as given by Nicastro, Muscato refused to comment.

RUSSIA ENTERS WHEAT MARKETS AND PRICES FALL

Chicago, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Re-entry of Russia into world wheat exporting competition upset world grain markets today and sent prices on the Chicago board of trade 1½ to 1¾c lower to a new set of lows for all deliveries. The closing prices were ¾ to 1½c off. Foreign houses and houses with Winnipeg connections were heavy sellers here. Liverpool closing 1½ to 2¼c lower and Winnipeg being 1½ to 1¾c lower, October there again selling under Chicago September.

At the bottom September wheat was 80½c, December 85½c, March 89½c and May 92½c.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—The two main objectives of the League of Nations—disarmament and peace—were notably advanced by the speeches of Aristide Briand and Arthur Henderson before the league assembly, it was believed in Geneva today.

Briand made an appeal for his plan of a federation of European states; Henderson offered Britain's support to the plan, provided that it leads toward world disarmament.

Any suggestion of opposed political maneuvers was completely effaced when both statesmen insisted that the European federation be placed entirely under the authority of the league. Henderson's plea for disarmament envisaged a preparatory conference in November and a general world disarmament conference in 1931.

Magawan, Minn., Sept. 12.—(U.P.)—Making good his escape by kidnaping a bank cashier, the bandit who held up the Citizens State Bank of $1,000 apparently had left no trace behind him today.

Sheriff's deputies and agents of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension continued their search today for the bandit who held up the bank just before closing time yesterday.

Elmer Hanson, cashier who was forced to act as chauffeur for the bandit, furnished authorities with a description of the car used by the robber, but he was thought to have been met by an accomplice in a second machine a few miles out of town.

Hanson said the bandit forced him to drive the criminal's car from the curb where it was parked outside the bank to a spot about a mile from town. Here he was forced out of the car and walked back to town to give the alarm.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 12.—The yachts of the Atlantic seaboard's elite gathered in Newport harbor today to witness the international yacht races for the America's Cup, beginning tomorrow.

Yachts ranging from the Viking of George F. Baker, Jr., and the Winchester of the Vanderbilts down to small power boats were anchored off the piers awaiting the start of the greatest regatta in a decade.

Enterprise and Shamrock V, defender and challenger for the America's Cup, occupied places of honor in the roadstead.

Captain Ned Heard of Shamrock went to the Bristol yards and looked at Enterprise yesterday.

"It might be a good idea," said Heard after he saw the big triangular spar, "for them to bend a few sails onto that spar and race it against Shamrock, instead of Enterprise."

That comment seemed to be the extent of Heard's interest in the stick of wood which has created a furor with the New York Yacht Club.

Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the challenger, spent the day aboard his yacht, the Erin.

"We're ready to race the best that can be sent against us," the 80-year-old sportsman insisted, "and I think we'll give them a race that they'll remember, too."

Newport, with the cup race only 24 hours away, was a town of tremendous activity. Hotel rooms were almost impossible to obtain.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Newport, R. I., Sept. 12.—The yachts of the Atlantic seaboard's elite gathered in Newport harbor today to witness the international yacht races for the America's Cup, beginning tomorrow.

Yachts ranging from the Viking of George F. Baker, Jr., and the Winchester of the Vanderbilts down to small power boats were anchored off the piers awaiting the start of the greatest regatta in a decade.

Enterprise and Shamrock V, defender and challenger for the America's Cup, occupied places of honor in the roadstead.

Captain Ned Heard of Shamrock went to the Bristol yards and looked at Enterprise yesterday.

"It might be a good idea," said Heard after he saw the big triangular spar, "for them to bend a few sails onto that spar and race it against Shamrock, instead of Enterprise." That comment seemed to be the extent of Heard's interest in the stick of wood which has created a furore with the New York Yacht Club.

Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the challenger, spent the day aboard his yacht, the Erin.

"We're ready to race the best that can be sent against us," the 80-year-old sportsman insisted, "and I think we'll give them a race that they'll remember, too."

Newport, with the cup race only 24 hours away, was a town of tremendous activity. Hotel rooms were almost impossible to obtain.

Now mother rests while dinner cooks

The modern gas range eliminates so much of the fussing and bother of cooking that mother can now snatch a few minutes rest while her dinner is cooking.

She prepares an entire dinner, places it in the oven, sets the controls as indicated in the recipe book, and the range does the rest while mother sits down to read the paper.

Foods are never scorched or underdone. There is no need to peer into the oven . . . for the heat regulator keeps the oven at exactly the right temperature. The oven is insulated to prevent the heat escaping into the kitchen.

There are dozens of new features on the new gas ranges that will save you time and work and make cooking a real pleasure. See them demonstrated and learn how little it will cost you to have a new gas range installed in your kitchen on convenient terms. Inquire today! » Northern States Power Company

Chief Requests Citizens to Report All Suspicious Looking Characters

Chief of Police Thomas Templeton requested citizens today to report any suspicious looking characters loitering around homes in the city as he continued a search for "second story" men who robbed three homes.

Two homes, those of P. A. McGarry, 402 South 9th Street, and Roy Sherlund, 709 South 7th Street, were entered Thursday afternoon while the home of C. Bruhn, 208 North Broadway, was entered Wednesday afternoon. All robberies took place while members of the families were away.

The robbers entered the Sherlund and Bruhn homes by pulling the screen doors open in the back of the houses. They broke the back porch window and entered the McGarry home.

A checkup revealed that $8 in cash and a lady's wrist watch were stolen from drawers in the home of Roy Sherlund, a man's suit valued at $55 was taken from the McGarry home while between $4 and $5 in cash was stolen from the Bruhn home. A $50 watch was overlooked by the burglars in the McGarry home.

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

September 12, 1905

The homes of W. A. Fleming and J. H. Noble were struck by lightning in a freak storm last evening, and considerable damage was done.

City Engineer Woolman, who was instructed at the last meeting of the city council to make surveys and furnish estimates on a proposed new water plant, is already at work. One of the first lines that is being run is between the city and Ahrens Hill.

Little Miss Irma Simmons, daughter of Chief E. H. Simmons, left today for the school for the deaf and dumb at Faribault. She was accompanied by Ina Wright of Staples who will also attend the school the ensuing year.

Rev. D. W. Lynch left this afternoon for St. Cloud with his niece Miss Maggie Lynch who will attend the St. Cloud normal the coming year.

Dr. Beiderman has closed his offices in the Imperial block and has gone to a small town in Wisconsin where he will locate.

Considerable improvement has been made in the hallway on the stairs of the First National bank building.

Jay O'Brien and Hiram Moore left this afternoon for Chicago where they will visit for a short time.

G. W. Chadbourne of Minneapolis arrived in the city this afternoon for a visit with relatives. Mrs. Chadbourne has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Low for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Bean of Los Angeles, formerly of this city arrived from St. Paul this afternoon and will visit with old friends for a short time. They have many warm friends in the city.

Art Lyonais announces the opening of his new grocery and confectionery store at 1205 South 6th street, the former location of the Billy Herman store.

Mr. Lyonais has installed a complete line of Table Talk and Omar groceries. He has also added a Texaco oil station. The store will be run on a cash basis.

BOY'S RAMBLE TO END IN BRAZIL

By "Seeing America First" He Has Already Covered 25,000 Miles

SLEEPS IN OPEN

Works for Meals; Leaves Here Today on Trip to South America

Distance and time mean absolutely nothing to Roy E. Banks. The 18-year-old Marshall, Mo., youth is on just one grand big ramble all over the country.

When he left Brainerd today he was on his way to North Dakota and after visiting the Dakotas, Nebraska and Iowa, he will have completed a hitch hiking tour of every state in America.

Home to him now is the wide open spaces. He has not slept under a roof since leaving Marshall on January 20, 1930, and he doesn't care particularly. When night comes he takes his punch-roll from his back, finds a nice comfortable spot near a river, a lake, or in a park, curls himself up and goes to sleep. Next morning he goes to a restaurant and asks to work for his meal. Then he is off again on the open highway.

"It's a great life," Roy says as he contemplates his future, that of hitch hiking and walking to the Panama and then into Brazil of South America.

Roy slept in Gregory Park undisturbed last evening. Then he visited the firemen and after a chat promised them he would visit soon friends in other fire departments throughout the country.

"I first left Marshall to seek work elsewhere," the youth said. "When I couldn't get work I just kept on rambling. There is no particular reason why I shouldn't because my parents are dead and my brothers and sisters have their own lives to lead."

Roy has had only one experience with the police. That happened in the east when he rolled upon a beach and he was picked up with some 40 others. The judge did not fine him, just told him to keep rambling, he said.

All has not been pleasant for young Banks. Once he was caught in a snowstorm in Nevada and after walking for miles he finally came to a cave into which he crawled and slept for the night.

So far he has covered 25,000 miles in seeing "America first." He left without a cent and has not increased his non-existing capital.

ROB OLD MAN WHO BEFRIENDED THEM

Three Young Men Given Food and Places to Sleep Tie Man to Bed, Rob Him

Three young men repaid a 60 year old farmer's kindness in giving them food and lodging by tying him to his bed, gagging him, and then robbing him of his money and valuables.

Lars Stenmark, living four miles from Aitkin near Bachellor Lake, was alone Wednesday evening when the three drove to his house and asked for sleeping accommodations. He prepared places for two of them and shared his own bed with the third. A short while later one of the men jammed a revolver against his back and ordered him to turn over to them his money and his valuables. After looting the home the trio fled.

At Grand Commandery Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Gray returned last evening from Minneapolis where they attended the annual banquet and ball given by the Grand Commandery of Minnesota, Kappa Sigma Templar on Wednesday evening at the New Nicolet Hotel.

The attendance was very good, there being ten hundred and fifty guests at the banquet.

On Thursday, Mr. Gray attended sessions of the Grand Commandery.

"The SEA BRIDE"

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE ROMANCE
OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING
CRUISE

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

FAITH KILCUP had always looked upon Captain Noll Wing, of the whaler, Sally Sims, as a master and tower of strength, but shortly after their marriage he changed. Dissipation and old age were exacting their toll. The men of his crew no longer feared him. Faith was disillusioned. Dan'l Tobey, second mate, who loves Faith, vainly tries to discredit Noll before Faith. In a quarrel Noll kicks out the eye of Mauger, a member of the crew. Thereafter, he fears Mauger's vengeance. When the Sally Sims puts into a lonely island, Faith goes ashore. She meets an ex-sailor named Brander, who goes with her to join Noll's crew. Dan'l takes an instant dislike to him. Faith's brother, Roy, also resents Brander. Dan'l comes upon Faith listening to Brander's singing and is consumed with jealousy. He intimates that Brander gossiped about Faith. Roy, raging, warns Brander to keep silent. Noll reprimands Brander for assisting Mauger. He strikes at Brander, who dodges the blow. The crew is stunned when Noll, admiring Brander's courage, taps him on the back and says, "Good man!" Later Mr. Ham, the first mate, encounters a fighting whale.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"PASS over your tubs," Mr. Ham ordered.

Dan'l's men obeyed and Mr. Ham took the fresh line to Willis. He was no more than just in time.

"The black devil's still going," Willis said. "Second tub's all but gone!"

"Bound for hell, more'n like," Mr. Ham agreed. "Hold him!"

Dan'l's line was running out by this time, for Willis had worked quickly, and still the whale went down. Mr. Ham stood by, waiting.

The line ran out steadily; the whale showed no signs of rising. The bow of Willis's boat was held down within inches of the water by the strain he kept upon the line. Another tub was emptied; he began to look anxious; and the whale kept going down.

"There, pass over your line," Mr. Ham said abruptly. "He'll be gone on you, first you know!"

Willis looked at the smoking line and reluctantly he surrendered. With no more than seconds to spare, the end of his line was made fast to the cut end of Mr. Ham's.

The whale continued to go down, held now by the mate. He had taken all the line of two boats—and wanted more.

"He's hungry," Mr. Ham grinned, watching the running rope. "Gone down for supper, likely. There!" he went on, a moment later, his eyes lighting. "Getting tired—or struck bottom, maybe."

They could all see that the line had slackened. The bow of Mr. Ham's boat rode at a normal level, the line hung loose. The mate turned around and bellowed to his men:

"Haul in!"

They began to take in the line, hand over hand; it fell in a wide coil amidships, overlapping the sides, spreading—a coil that grew and grew. They worked like mad. The only way to kill a whale is to pull up on him until your boat rides against his very flank. All the line this creature had stolen must be recovered before he could be slain. They toiled with racing hands.

Mr. Ham began to look anxiously over the bow, down into the blue water from which the line came up. "He's near due," he said.

It is one of the curious and fatal habits of the sounding whale to rise near the spot where he went down. It is as if the creature followed a well-known path into the depths and up again. This is not always true, for sometimes a whale that has sounded will take it into his mind to run, will set off at a double pace; but in most cases the whale comes up near where he disappeared.

The men knew this. Dan'l Tobey, in his sinking boat, worked away from the neighborhood to give the mate room. So did Willis. And Mr. Ham, leaning one knee on the bow, peering down into the water, his lance ready in his hand, waited for the whale to rise.

The line came in. The nerves of each man tautened. Mr. Ham said, over his shoulder: "Silva, you coil the line. Rest of you, get in your oars. Hold ready!"

He heard the men obey, knew they were waiting to maneuver at his command. The whale was coming up slowly; the line was still slack but the creature should have breached long before.

The mate thought he detected a light pull on the line. It seemed to draw backward, underneath the boat.

"Pull her around," he said softly.

The oars dipped; the boat swung slowly on a pivot. The line now ran straight down.

Abruptly Mr. Ham bending above the water, thought he saw a black bulk far down and down—a bulk that seemed to rise. He watched.

It was ahead of the boat; it became more plainly visible. The mate waved his hand, pointing.

"There!" he said. "There!"

Deep in the water that black bulk swiftly moved; it darted to one side, circling, rising. Mr. Ham saw the flash of white, a huge black head, a swordlike, sawtoothed jaw. The big man towered; he flung his left hand up and back in a tremendous gesture.

"Starn! Oh, starn all!" he cried.

The oars bent like bows under the fierce thrust of the men as they backed water. The boat slid back; but not in time.

Willis Cox and the men in his boat saw the long, narrow under jaw of the cachalot—a dozen feet long, with the curving teeth of a tiger set along it—slide up from the water, above the bow of the boat. The bow lifted as the whale's upper jaw, toothless, rose under it. The creature was on its back, biting. The boat rolled sideways, the men were tumbling out.

But that narrow jaw sheared down resistlessly—through the stout sides of the boat, crumpling and splintering ribs and planking—through the boat—and clamped shut across the thick body of the mate. They saw the mate's body swell as a toy balloon swells under a child's foot. Then, horribly, it relaxed and fell away, and was lost on a smother of bloody foam.

Loum, Willis's boat-steerer, swung them alongside the rolling whale. It was Brander who caught a loop of the loose line; and while the creature lay quietly, apparently content with what it had done, they hauled close, and Willis—the boy's face was white, but his hand was steady—drove home his lance, and drew it forth, and plunged it in, again and yet again.

The whale seemed to have exhausted its strength. Having killed, it died easily enough. Its spout crimsoned, its flukes bent in a last flurry, then the great black bulk was still.

They picked up the men who had been spilled from the mate's boat. Not a man was hurt, of them all, save only Mr. Ham. Him they never found—no part of him. The sea took him. No doubt,

Faith thought that night, he would have wished his life to come to some such end.

Mr. Ham was dead and gone. Faith was surprised to find, in the next few days, how much she missed him. The mate had been harsh, brutal to the men, ready with his fist; yet somehow she found in her heart a deep affection for the man. He was so amiably stupid, so stupidly good of heart.

His philosophy of life had been the philosophy of blows. He believed that men, like children, were best ruled for their own good by the heavy hand of a master; and he acted on that belief, with the best will in the world. But there had never been any malice in his blows; he frowned and glared and struck from principle; he was at heart a simple man and a gentle one. Not the stuff of a leader; never the man to take command of a masterless ship. Nevertheless, a man of certain rude and simple strength of soul.

Faith was sorry he was gone. She felt they could have better spared another man—almost any other, save Noll Wing.

She did not at once understand the true nature of the change which Mr. Ham's death must bring about aboard the Sally. In the balancing of man and man which had made for a precarious stability there, Mr. Ham had taken a passive but nevertheless important part. Now he was gone; the balance was disturbed. But neither Faith nor the others perceived this; none of them saw that Dan'l Tobey as second mate, and Dan'l Tobey as first mate, with only a step between him and the command, were very different matters. Not even Dan'l saw it, in the beginning.

They were all too busy, for one thing. There were the whales to be cut in—for James Tichel had killed and towed his booty back to the Sally an hour after Mr. Ham died. Tichel's whale, and the one that had killed Mr. Ham, would give the whole ship work for days—feverish work, hard and engrossing.

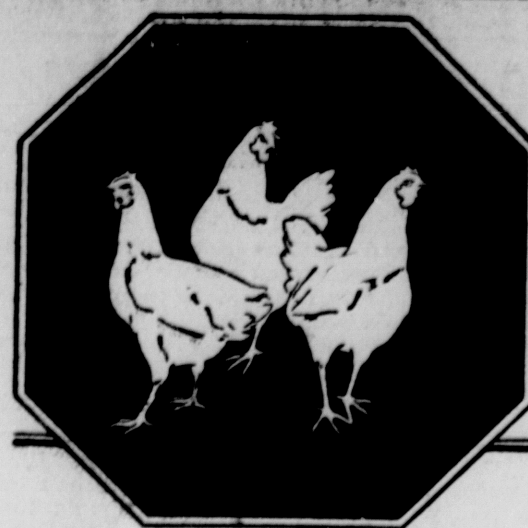

Cap'n Wing, who had leaned upon Mr. Ham in the past, perforce took charge of this work, and the strain of it wearied him. He no longer had the abounding vitality which it demanded. What with the death of the mate, and the rush of work, and his own weariness, he altogether forgot his threat to have the man Brander whipped in the rigging. He forgot Brander, tried to drive the men at their tasks, and eventually gave up in a stormy outbreak of impatience, leaving the work in the hands of Dan'l Tobey.

Dan'l went about the business of cutting in and boiling the blubber in a deep abstraction. He was considering the problem raised by the death of Mr. Ham, which none of the others—save perhaps Faith—had yet perceived.

This problem was simple; yet it had possibilities of trouble. As Mr. Ham was gone, Dan'l automatically became first officer. Old James Tichel ranked as second, Willis as third; but the place of fourth mate was left empty. It would have to be filled. The Sally could not go on about her business with one boat's crew forever idle. There would have to be a new officer.

Dan'l was troubled by the problem, for the reason that Brander was the only man aboard with an officer's training; that Brander was the obvious choice. Dan'l did not want Brander in the cabin; he had seen too much in Faith's eyes that night when she heard Brander sing by the captain. He had eyes to see, and he had seen. There was boiling in Dan'l's storm of hatred for Brander. He was filled with a rancor unspeakable.

"The SEA BRIDE"

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE ROMANCE
OF AN EVENTFUL
WHALING

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

FAITH KILCUP had always looked upon Captain Noll Wing, of the whaler, Sally Sims, as a master and tower of strength, but shortly after their marriage he changed. Dissipation and old age were exacting their toll. The men of his crew no longer feared him. Faith was disillusioned. Dan'l Tobey, second mate, who loves Faith, vainly tries to discredit Noll before Faith. In a quarrel Noll kicks out the eye of Mauger, a member of the crew. Thereafter, he fears Mauger's vengeance. When the Sally Sims puts into a lonely island, Faith goes ashore. She meets an ex-sailor named Brander, who goes with her to join Noll's crew. Dan'l takes an instant dislike to him. Faith's brother, Roy, also resents Brander. Dan'l comes upon Faith listening to Brander's singing and is consumed with jealousy. He intimates that Brander gossiped about Faith. Roy, raging, warns Brander to keep silent. Noll reprimands Brander for assisting Mauger. He strikes at Brander, who dodges the blow. The crew is stunned when Noll, admiring Brander's courage, taps him on the back and says, "Good man!" Later Mr. Ham, the first mate, encounters a fighting whale.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"PASS over your tubs," Mr. Ham ordered. Dan'l's men obeyed and Mr. Ham took the fresh line to Willis. He was no more than just in time.

"The black devil's still going," Willis said. "Second tub's all but gone!"

"Bound for hell, more'n like," Mr. Ham agreed. "Hold him!"

Dan'l's line was running out by this time, for Willis had worked quickly, and still the whale went down. Mr. Ham stood by, waiting. The line ran out steadily; the whale showed no signs of rising. The bow of Willis's boat was held down within inches of the water by the strain he kept upon the line. Another tub was emptied; he began to look anxious; and the whale kept going down.

"There, pass over your line," Mr. Ham said abruptly. "He'll be gone on you, first you know!" Willis looked at the smoking line and reluctantly he surrendered. With no more than seconds to spare, the end of his line was made fast to the cut end of Mr. Ham's. The whale continued to go down, held now by the mate. He had taken all the line of two boats—and wanted more.

"He's hungry," Mr. Ham grinned, watching the running rope. "Gone down for supper, likely. There!" he went on, a moment later, his eyes lighting. "Getting tired—or struck bottom, maybe."

They could all see that the line had slackened. The bow of Mr. Ham's boat rode at a normal level, the line hung loose. The mate turned around and bellowed to his men:

"Haul in!" They began to take in the line, hand over hand; it fell in a wide coil amidships, overlapping the sides, spreading—a coil that grew and grew. They worked like mad. The only way to kill a whale is to pull up on him until your back rides against his very flank. All the line this creature had stolen must be recovered before he could be slain. They toiled with racing hands.

Mr. Ham began to look anxiously over the bow, down into the blue water from which the line came up. "He's near due," he said.

It is one of the curious and fatal habits of the sounding whale to rise near the spot where he went down. It is as if the creatures followed a well-known path into the depths and up again. This is not always true, for sometimes a whale that has sounded will take it into his mind to run, will set off at a double pace; but in most cases the whale comes up near where he disappeared.

The men knew this. Dan'l Tobey, in his sinking boat, worked away from the neighborhood to give the mate room. So did Willis. And Mr. Ham, leaning one knee on the bow, peering down into the water, his lance ready in his hand, waited for the whale to rise.

The line came in. The nerves

of each man tautened. Mr. Ham said, over his shoulder:

"Silva, you coil the line. Rest of you, get in your oars. Hold ready!"

He heard the men obey, knew they were waiting to maneuver at his command. The whale was coming up slowly; the line was still slack but the creature should have reached long before.

The mate thought he detected a light pull on the line. It seemed to draw backward, underneath the boat.

"Pull her around," he said softly.

The oars dipped; the boat swung slowly on a pivot. The line now ran straight down.

"There!" he said. "There!"

Deep in the water that black bulk swiftly moved; it darted to one side, circling, rising. Mr. Ham saw the flash of white, a huge black head, a swordlike, saw-toothed jaw. The big man towered; he flung his left hand up and back in a tremendous gesture. "Starn! Oh, starn all!" he cried.

The oars bent like bows under the fierce thrust of the men as they backed water. The boat slid back; but not in time.

Willis Cox and the men in his boat saw the long, narrow under jaw of the cachalot—a dozen feet long, with the curving teeth of a tiger set along it—slide up from the water, above the bow of the boat. The bow lifted as the whale's upper jaw, toothless, rose under it. The creature was on its back, biting. The boat rolled sideways, the men were tumbling out.

But that narrow jaw sheared down resistlessly—through the stout sides of the boat, crumpling and splintering ribs and planking—through the boat—and clamped shut across the thick body of the mate. They saw the mate's body swell as a toy balloon swells under a child's foot. Then, horribly, it relaxed and fell away, and was lost on a smother of bloody foam.

Lo'n n. Willis's boat-steerer, swung them alongside the rolling whale. It was Brander who caught a loop of the loose line; and while the creature lay quietly, apparently content with what it had done, they hauled close, and Willis—the boy's face was white, but his hand was steady—drove home his lance, and drew it forth, and plunged it in, again and yet again.

The whale seemed to have exhausted its strength. Having killed, it died easily enough. Its spout crimsoned, its flukes beat in a last flurry, then the great black bulk was still.

The Sally could not go on about her business with one boat's crew forever idle. There would have to be a new officer.

Dan'l was troubled by the problem, for the reason that Brander was the only man aboard with an officer's training; that Brander was the obvious choice. Dan'l did not want Brander in the cabin; he had seen too much in Faith's eyes that night when she heard Brander sing by the capstan. He had eyes to see, and he had seen. There was boiling in Dan'l's storm of hatred for Brander. He was filled with a rancor unspeakable. Copyright, 1930, by Ben Ames Williams. Distributed by King Features Syndicate. Build Them Up for Extra Eggs

Pullets raised on Gold Medal Growing Mash not only grow faster and bigger—they lay more and bigger eggs. Their better developed bodies, greater vitality, and greater laying capacity give you extra eggs and a higher return on your investment throughout the laying life of your flock.

It is a "Farm-tested" ration proved on thousands of farms under feeding conditions exactly like your own. Feed your growing birds Gold Medal Growing Mash. It is a product of the world's largest milling organization, made to the same high standard of quality as the famous Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour.
